

Molto

A slab serif tonal master, tempering toughness
with exuberant flourishes.

DESIGNED BY

Xavier Dupré

2018

Xavier Dupré's Molto font family is a tonal master, creating tenderness in a slab serif and tempering toughness with flourishes. Slab serifs created their original niche by their ability to grab attention and overwhelm, which caused them to be seen as strong, dominant, and desired fonts, especially in advertising. Slab serifs are the result of placing defined edges on something meant to take up an inordinate amount of space, rather than meant to be graceful. Molto updates this concept to allow a greater, and gentler, range in the lighter weights.

Molto's nine weights are defined by their intended use. The two extreme weights (Hair and Fat) act as display partners for magazines, titles, and posters. The Hair weight is runway ready with its sturdy serifs, breathy internal space, and stable lettershapes that were designed both to perform and impress. Molto's Fat weight packs maximum punch in a believable way. Its wide and deliberate curves contrast against thin connections and landing strip stems. Molto can be put to perfect use in a fashion magazine using swashy Hair headlines set against its darkest weight.

Molto's seven intermediate weights, with their classic and legible shapes, are meant for texts of all sizes. The notches on diagonals, distinct numerals, and acute terminals grant benefits from caption sizes up to headings. Molto's refined light weights and punchy heavy weights set the stage for a swashy surprise — alternate capital letters act as refined garments laid atop its concrete skeleton.

The Molto font family rejects saving space in favour of intensifying shapes, placing the maximum weights on the edges for better legibility and impact. Latin-based digital and printed designs will benefit from Molto's design voice and breadth. This means UI, video, and online text, and print materials like dictionaries, packaging, advertising, and branding can all put Molto's robust forms to multipurpose use. Molto successfully creates balance in a slab serif design: an opinionated and striking type family, stalwart in captions and exuberant in display, thanks to swashes which add some originality to the slab category.

THE DESIGNERS

Xavier Dupré was born in France in 1977. He studied graphic design in Paris as well as calligraphy and typography at the Scriptorium de Toulouse with Bernard Arin and Rodolphe Giuglaro. Beginning in 1999 he worked as a type designer in a packaging design agency. He has also collaborated with Ladislav Mandel (known for telephone directory typography) on Renaissance experimental writings. Since 2001, after publishing his first type family through FontFont, he has lived and travelled in Asia where he designed Latin & Khmer typefaces for NGOs in Cambodia. His typefaces have been awarded on several occasions with the Certificate of Typographic Excellence by New York's Type Directors Club.

Xavier prefers to work in full freedom, without any constraints, in order to spend time observing nature and cooking — especially vegetarian food and pastries.
